

ABSTRACT

A scanning control circuit includes a direct memory access controller (DMA), a video processor, and a video signal generator. A frequency synthesizer connects to the video signal generator. Configuration registers bidirectionally connect to the DMA, video processor, the video signal generator and the frequency synthesizer. A data bus electrically connects the DMA and the configuration registers.